

Ace Safety Academy

In recent years our business has seen a large increase in the need for sound health & safety advice and training to meet the demands of large utility contracts that are driven more and more by high safety standards.

IWJS has always prided itself in supplying professional site teams and supervisors that are well trained and equipped to meet the needs of these modern day contracts. The close working relationship we have with Ace Training Academy goes a long way to ensure this criterion is met.

Their attention to detail and life like training courses at their purpose built training school in Shaw; Oldham regularly put our teams through their paces in credible situations that help prepare them for real on site situations and environments.

Having a confident well trained work force gives us the comfort in knowing that our site teams are out on a daily basis armed with the best training and industry knowledge available and we have Ace Safety Academy to thank for that.

In addition, we would like to thank Mr Peter Jackson for his continued professional assistance not only in delivering our training needs but also for his continued support to all who need to call on his second to none experience and guidance.

We would recommend ACE Training Academy to any other company requiring a high professional standard training provider.

Yours sincerely
